

E. C. Leader

OCTOBER, 2009

Our Vision

The Evangelical Congregational Church will be a dynamic movement of God that is led by pastors and laity who have a burning passion for God and a missionary zeal to reach the lost. We will creatively obey the Great Commission by transforming plateaued and declining churches into healthy, disciple-making churches that are committed to evangelizing the communities to which God has called them. Healthy churches will reproduce themselves by planting churches in least-reached communities. Interdependence will be the distinguishing mark of the Evangelical Congregational Church as local churches network with one another and ministries beyond the E.C. family to proclaim the Gospel to the world.

“Stepping Out”

The first meeting of our “Transformation” Strategic Planning Team took place on September 26 at Zion EC in Myerstown, PA. It was an exciting day of laying the foundation for the process of getting everyone “on the same page.” Those objectives were achieved and while the page we’re on is a broad one – reflecting the varied perspectives, priorities, and passions of the group members – one reality was apparent to all. Once again we stand at a crucial intersection as a denomination. We cannot remain as we are if we are to align ourselves with the purpose and plans of God. Our future as a movement of God is being determined by the decisions we are making and the directions we are taking today.

We’re asking Christ to change us. Will we allow Him? It’s a faith journey we’ve started upon. Like Abraham our intent is to follow the Lord “to the land that [He] will show us.” Genesis 12:1 We are leaving it to God to reveal His destination for us. This means walking in Abraham’s footsteps who “obeyed and went, even though he did not know where he was going.” We’re underway, content to finish our trip wherever the Spirit of God chooses to take us.

Are you on board? Will you accompany the team in its search? A series of District based meetings will take place in October and November. The District Ministry Teams composed of the pastor(s), Lay Delegate, and a second lay leader from each congregation are asked to attend one of those sessions. Participants will take part in the assessment of our strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats. The planning team wants to listen to what God has been laying on your heart for the E.C. Church.

There’s also a place for hundreds, if not thousands more to come along to the journey in prayer. We encourage as many as possible to intercede for the planning initiative. Members of the Prayer Mobilization group will be joining us on site at many of the meetings. If you’re not there in person, attend in spirit by asking the Lord to be present and presiding at every stage in the planning process. It’s His plan we need not our own. Call on Him to shake and shape every meeting so that it’s His path we find.

We’ve taken another step toward becoming a movement. Cry out to the Lord to keep us in motion. It’s His momentum we need.

Seeking Him,
Bishop Kevin

NO SOCIAL SECURITY RECIPIENT INCREASE FOR 2010: On October 15, the trustees that oversee the Social Security Administration confirmed that there will be no COLA (cost of living adjustment) for Social Security recipients for 2010. The Cost of Living Adjustment is based primarily on the inflation rate. The United States has a negative inflation rate in 2009, therefore no COLA increase for Social Security in 2010. This marks the first time that seniors haven't received an increase since the adjustment process was adopted in 1975.

Long-Term Care Coverage - Is It Necessary?

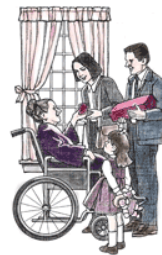

A national debate is currently raging over health care reform. However, one of the interesting components that has been almost totally absent from that debate is the subject of long-term care. Regardless of the eventual outcome of the health care issue, it seems pretty obvious that long-term care is still going to remain an issue for the foreseeable future.

The statistics are startling. More than two-thirds of Americans age 65 and older are going to need long-term care - medical and nursing services that go beyond doctor's visits or treatment for specific illnesses, whether that care is provided in the home, an assisted-living facility, or in a nursing home. And that care can be overly expensive. A private room in a nursing home averaged more than $212 a day last year - or more than $77,000 for the year. The final disturbing number is that a senior that requires long-term care, generally needs care for an average of three years.

Many seniors - and the families - wrongfully assume that Medicare will provide for long-term care if such is needed. However, Medicare covers no more than 100 days of extended care for those seniors over 65 years of age. While Medicaid does cover long-term care, to qualify for Medicaid you have to be severely impoverished, with less than $2000 in assets in most states, to qualify. And if you do qualify for Medicaid, it typically only covers nursing home care, and not care provided at home or in an assisted-living facility.

Most people, therefore, are left with no other option than purchasing a long-term care insurance policy. These policies can range from several thousand dollars per year into the tens of thousand dollars, depending upon your age and your general health conditions, including pre-existing conditions. Most people, with any assets at all, should consider purchasing a long-term care insurance policy when they are in their late 50s or early 60s and while they are still in good health.

The cost of the policy will depend upon how much coverage you purchase, with policies generally coming in "full" coverage or a certain amount per day (such as $150 per day). You should read very carefully the insurance company's definition of "full" coverage.

Most of the time your definition of "full" coverage and their definition will be substantially different. Also, you should pay close attention to the deductible period, generally based upon a time period of 30 to 180 days. That provision means that the policy will not kick in and start coverage until you have paid, out of pocket, for the first 30 days or whatever time is set as the deductible period. Most policies have a 90-day deductible period.

Different features of the long-term care policy will determine the cost. However, a 65-year-old in good health should be able to find a policy for an annual premium in the range of $3500-$5000. While that seems astronomical, it would cost that much to stay in a nursing home for about 20 days. When you make that comparison, the long-term care insurance seems like a bargain.
