

me from His Word.” This is how it should be. I believe that as we move toward the climax of the ages, this is going to be paramount. I do not want to make one step contrary to God’s plan for my life.

My prayer time is changing. I am now taking some tools into the secret place in which God and I meet. I take my Bible so I can hear God speak and my pen so I can remember what He has said. The Lord is desirous to use me in His service to the fullest. I want to walk through every door that He places in front of me.

Psalm 32:8 says, “I will instruct you and teach you in the way that you should go, I will guide thee with mine eyes.”

How to pray for our Bishop

- For God’s anointing on the sessions of National Conference. That we accomplish “His business” and receive inspiration and motivation to become increasingly missional.
- For the completion of this year’s stationing process and that those newly assigned will “fit and flourish” together. With several stationing needs arising later in the process we are committed to doing things well rather than by the NC deadline.
- For wisdom in preparing for opportunities over the summer to preach at our camp meetings.
- For the upcoming wedding of our oldest son, Peter. Please intercede for the mother of his bride to be Kelly. Kelly’s mom, Linda Cuddebach may need to undergo a high risk surgical procedure for a cancer condition that has returned and seems to be spreading. Pray also for Kelly herself as she is seeking a teaching position in the New York City area.
- For keeping a healthy balance of personal time, family time, and physical activity... amidst the pursuit of ministry.

Doors of Opportunity?

In Revelation Chapter 4:1 the Apostle John is invited by the Almighty God to walk through a door in which great revelation would be bestowed upon him concerning the things yet to come. I believe we are entering a time when opportunities to serve are being presented by the Lord for all those who are willing.

We are in the final days of harvest for the Kingdom. Servants are being sent out to the harvest fields in great numbers. God is setting before the willing servant doors that we must boldly, bravely walk through. This is not a time for prayer to take a back seat. Now more than ever we must seek His face so that we may know the will of God and be able to discern the good from the best. Is a door meant for my benefit and growth or is it meant for my destruction?

Recently I was asked by a dear member of our church concerning a decision that would involve them leaving the area and relocating near children. All pastors hate to lose members but without hesitation I said, “In matters that are huge in my life, I insist upon God speaking to me from His Word.” When we call on the Lord God, He will speak to us in various ways. Sometimes it’s the still small voice of the Spirit. Sometimes it’s the voice of a friend. Sometimes doors open up before us. After I said what I did, I believe I must modify what I said. “In all matters in my life, I insist upon God speaking to
